Account email for another account, you'll need to use a different email address. Go to Merchant Center Merchant Center is a free tool that helps millions of shoppers on Google discover, explore, and buy your products. With a Merchant Center account, you can upload and manage your product data so that your products appear across Google Search, Maps, YouTube and more, for free. Get started Signing up for Merchant Center takes just a few steps. You'll tell us about your business and where you sell your products, whether online, in a physical store, or both. Your business profile details are your store name, your business hours, your services. Your business information will be applied across the different features and tools that you use in Merchant Center. You can always edit it later. You'll select the checkout options that apply to your business. For example, do you sell online, in a physical store, or both? You can choose more than one, and change them later in your Merchant Center account if you need to. You'll help us ensure we have the right information about your products. There are a few different options for getting your information from your website to Merchant Center. For example, Google will automatically add product information through your online store at sign-up or you can choose to upload your product data manually. We'll help choose the right option for you among other available ones. You'll let us know if you work with any third-party platforms. You might work with a third-party platform to show, promote, or sell your products across Google. For example, if you use Shopify, you can link your Shopify account to your Merchant Center account. This will automatically sync your Shopify products in Merchant Center for you. You can always modify these products or add more products in Merchant Center via the Product section. Troubleshooting tips If you have trouble signing up, try these steps: Try to create a new Google Account. Make sure that the Google account you use has admin access to your Google Merchant Center. Make sure your business information is filled out completely and accurately. Merchant Center is compatible with a responsive mobile web experience, so you can access it from your mobile device after signing up. The time zone for Merchant Center is automatically filled based on the country or region that you choose under Business address. The country selected during account set up cannot be changed later. If you don't specify the country in the business information of a sub-account, the account will adopt the country from the aggregator Merchant Center account. A single user can be added to a maximum of 100 Merchant Center accounts. To sign up for Gmail, create a Google Account. In step 1 (Write questions), select the appropriate question type(s) and write your question(s). Click CONFIRM. In step 2 (Pick audience), name your survey and select your target audience. Click CONTINUE. In step 3 (Confirm survey), review your survey questions and purchase responses. You also have the option here to adjust the survey frequency. Click BUY NOW or START TEST* if your survey has screening questions. Your survey is sent to our team for review and you receive a confirmation email once it has been started. You receive another email with a link to your results once your survey is completed. You can start seeing results once your survey is approved and data is processed, which usually happens in a matter of hours. *If you use screening questions, an audience test is required and the minimum incidence rate is 5%. Survey creation frequently asked questions Expand all Collapse all How can I target the appropriate audience with my survey questions? When Google Surveys collects responses from the general-Internet audience, it uses published Internet-population data sets for the target-population distribution. For example, when targeting United States, the United States governments Current Population Survey (CPS) Internet Supplement is the target population distribution. For details, see our methodology overview. Note that our audience incomes are the median income of the areas we surveyed. You can target questions based on inferred demographics (age, gender, or geography) from the first step of the survey-creation wizard. For custom audiences such as dog owners or people who play golf, you can use screening questions that let you screen respondents to ensure that they are in your target audience. A screening question can be any non-binary, multiple choice question such as Yes / No / I plan to. As an example, respondents first see your screening question and then those who select Yes or I plan to answer the following questions from your survey. What types of language targeting are available? When targeting surveys to the general population in specific countries, you are required to write your survey questions in the language that's available in the country you selected. Learn more about the language availability for each country. Survey translation Google Surveys does not provide any survey-translation services. All surveys must be written and submitted in the language that the survey is targeting. Surveys are not automatically translated. Where will my survey questions appear? Questions appear throughout sites in our publisher network in order to get a representative sample of respondents. Users complete survey questions in order to access high quality content around the web, and publishers get paid as their users answer. Google and many publishers want to protect their readers privacy and ensure that any proprietary data they have about their readership is not exposed, so we do not supply a list of the sites where individual questions run. Can I create matrix-grid-type questions? Google Surveys does not support matrix questions, or grids with response categories along the top and a list of questions down the side, which often prompt participants to abandon surveys (Brecko, Carstens; 2006). Instead, we suggest that you break out each row of a matrix question into its own separate multiple choice or rating question. This way, respondents can focus on each question and provide more accurate answers.
